W.W. Johnson, Chemist, Llandrindod.
Record deposits by W.I . Shewan, 5
December 1986.

Accs 233 &
1704

The business appears to be established in 1878, possibly by T.P. Davies. William Wilson Johnson held two shops in 1901 and 1911 in High Street ('Clevedon') and Temple Street (next to the Beaufort and Windsor House). By 1926 he had closed the shop in High street and established a new shop at the bottom of Park Crescent which is still open. Johnson seems to have died in 1947; certainly the business had been sold before March 1948 to George Hilliar, a former apprentice to Johnson. The Temple street shops seem to have closed about 1953. Johnson's main rival during the period 1905-c. 1930 was William Stanley Bound who held shops in Park Crescent (next to the railway bridge) and Temple Street (now an electrical shop on the corner of Spa Road West). One item below is evidently from Bound's business.
